

To help their own people. This makes the charity Boer association Brood vir Nood of Rustenburg.

“With the help of AWB members and our Heavenly Father we have been able to bring some relieve to the people with the aid of food, clothes and bedding”, said one of the leaders of the association after the latest initiatives.

Last weekend Brood vir Nood has delivered aid to residents of Sonop, a small village of poor whites just outside Brits, and those of another camp in Kameeldrif, just outside Pretoria.

To help their own people is always good. But when charity hasn't ulterior motives, as in this case, it's really beautiful.
